A BRIEF HISTORY

Archie C. Towle was born in Merrill, Wisconsin in 1900. He served in the Army as a truck mechanic during World War I. After returning from the war in 1920, he came to Wausau and continued to be a mechanic.

His interest then turned to aviation and he soloed on May 16, 1929, thus beginning a Towle family tradition. One summer early in his flying career, Archie taught his wife, Margaret, and their daughter, Marie, then a mere 16 years of age, to fly. Since that time, seventeen of his descendants have learned to fly, most taking their solo flight on or near their 16th birthday.

Archie Towle was instrumental in the early development of Wausau's Alexander Municipal Airport, which later became known as the Wausau Downtown Airport. As a flight instructor, he logged over 3,000 flying hours. When he passed away in 1945, his daughter, Marie, and her husband took over management of the airport until 1970. Archie and Marie were both inducted into the Wisconsin Aviation Hall of Fame in October of 2003.

The Archie C. Towle Aviation Endowment Fund was formed in 1998 within the Community Foundation of North Central Wisconsin to provide scholarships for aviation students to receive flight or maintenance training. Initial funding was made in honor of Archie's oldest son, Larry P. Towle. The fund continues to be supported by the Towle family and those organizations interested in supporting the purpose for which this scholarship was created. Additional contributions are welcome.
