

WISCONSIN AVIATION HALL OF FAME SCHOLARSHIP FUNDS

A component fund of the

BACKGROUND

A key segment of the Wisconsin Aviation Hall of Fame's (WAHF) mission is the promotion of aviation/aerospace education. One way WAHF achieves that goal is by awarding scholarships. WAHF's scholarship program began in 2002 with a single $1,000 award. Today, five scholarships are presented annually to Wisconsin students in an aviation or aerospace program.

SCHOLARSHIP DESCRIPTIONS

The Jeff Baum Scholarship was established in 2013 to honor long-time aviation business owner and 2013 WAHF inductee Jeff Baum. This scholarship is a $500 annual award.

The Carl Guell Memorial Scholarship, named in honor of the WAHF's founder, was created in 2002. This scholarship provides a $1,000 annual award.

The Robert Payzer Memorial/EAA Chapter 640 Scholarship began in 2013 when a local EAA chapter elected to recognize former member Robert Payzer. Payzer was a Wausau, Wisconsin native and friend of the chapter. This scholarship is a $1,000 annual award.

The Jerome Ripp Memorial Scholarship was established in 2007 in tribute to former Waunakee (Wisconsin) Airpark owner and pilot Jerome Ripp. Waunakee area pilots and friends joined the Ripp family in funding this $500 award.

The Thiessen Field Scholarship was created in 2005 by Jerome Thiessen, a Wisconsin aircraft owner and builder who flies from his private airport. Students with a financial need or lower GPA are especially encouraged to apply for this $500 annual award.

ELIGIBILITY

The following requirements apply to all awards. Applicants must:

- plan to pursue an education in the aviation/aerospace field
- be a resident of Wisconsin for at least two years
- demonstrate a passion for a career in the aviation/aerospace field
- be active in community and extracurricular activities; (note - Thiessen waives this requirement)
- have a minimum 3.0 GPA; (note - Thiessen Field Scholarship waives this requirement)

Additional requirements for some awards:

Jeff Baum Scholarship

- applicants must be enrolled in an aviation business management program

Thiessen Field Scholarship

- applicants must either be enrolled, or planning to enroll, in an aviation program at an institution of higher education in Wisconsin or the surrounding region
- applicants with financial need should state those special circumstances on the application
- GPA and community service are not deciding factors in the review process and should not be deterrents for individuals planning to apply

ANNOUNCEMENT AND PAYMENT

The Community Foundation of North Central Wisconsin will confirm the selection of the committee with the recipients and will pay scholarship funds directly to the recipient's school once proof of registration has been provided. Recipients are invited to attend and be recognized at the Wisconsin Aviation Hall of Fame's annual induction ceremony held in Oshkosh, typically in October.

DONATIONS ACCEPTED

These scholarships are offered through the endowed funds that support them, which are administered within the Community Foundation of North Central Wisconsin.

Tax-deductible donations can be made to these funds at any time and in any amount. We also welcome the establishment of any new funds, and would be happy to discuss the possibility with interested donors.

Online donations are accepted with a credit card through the Community Foundation's website (www.cfoncw.org – click on the "Give Now" button and follow the prompts to alphabetically locate the fund of your choice). Checks may be mailed to the Community Foundation – make checks payable to the Community Foundation of North Central Wisconsin with a notation stating which scholarship the donation is to be directed to and send it to the address below.
