

WISCONSIN AVIATION HALL OF FAME

A key segment of the Wisconsin Aviation Hall of Fame's (WAHF) mission is the promotion of aviation / aerospace education. One way WAHF achieves that goal is by awarding scholarships. WAHF's scholarship program began in 2002 with a single $1,000 award. Today, four scholarships are presented annually to Wisconsin students in an aviation or aerospace program.

The Jeff Baum Aviation Business & Jim Quinn Flight School Scholarship was established in 2013 to honor long-time aviation business owner and 2013 WAHF inductee Jeff Baum. In 2018, an additional gift was received to the fund and expanded to include recognition of Jim Quinn. This scholarship is a $1,000 annual award to a deserving aviation/aerospace student. Preference will be given to students enrolled in aviation business management or flight school programs.

The Carl Guell Memorial Scholarship, named in honor of the WAHF's founder, was created in 2002. This scholarship provides a $1,000 annual award to a deserving aviation/aerospace student.

The Robert Payzer Memorial/EAA Chapter 640 Scholarship began in 2013 when a local EAA chapter elected to recognize former member Robert Payzer, a Wausau, Wisconsin native and friend of the chapter. This scholarship is a $1,000 annual award to a deserving aviation/aerospace student.

The Thiessen Field Scholarship was created in 2005 by Jerome Thiessen, a Wisconsin aircraft owner and builder who flew from his private airport. Students with a financial need or lower GPA are especially encouraged to apply for these awards given in his memory.

RECOGNITION: Scholarship recipients are invited to attend and be recognized at the Wisconsin Aviation Hall of Fame's annual induction ceremony held in Oshkosh in the fall.
